ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of dynamically assigning network access privileges is disclosed to define a privilege parameter table according to the access request command. A corresponding weighted parameter is assigned according to the privilege parameter table. Through a sorting mechanism, the weighted sums of all access routines are put into a table, according to which the access procedures are performed.